By signing up for Reach for Shabbat, you are committing your family to a year of deep and meaningful learning and community-building in addition to your commitment to the B'nai Jeshurun Hebrew School. In order to participate, the Dalet or Hey student and at least one parent must:

- ✧ Remain in the Hebrew School for the duration of the school year;
- ✧ Attend every program in the Reach for Shabbat series for the duration of the school year;
- ✧ Participate in our on-going evaluation process; and
- ✧ Be open to the possibilities of new learning and new friendships with the other children and adults in the Reach for Shabbat program, including the teacher, the educators, and the Rabbis.

In addition, by signing up for Reach for Shabbat, your Dalet and/or Hey student and at least one parent are invited to:

- ✧ Share what they learn with the rest of your family and friends;
- ✧ Sign up to bring other family members to any program; and
- ✧ Participate in the vast array of Shabbat and Limmud programming, both for kids and adults, at BJ outside of Reach for Shabbat.

The cost to participate in the three Reach For Shabbat programs is $72.00 for one student and one parent. Families with more than one student in Dalet or Hey should contact us for cost information. Additional members of the family may sign up to participate on a program-by-program basis for an additional cost. Financial aid is available.

I have read and agree to the above conditions. I understand what my family can expect from Reach for Shabbat, and what the Reach for Shabbat program can expect from me.
